As these courses are being offered online, successful candidates will also:
· have regular access to high speed internet and a computer that meets current specifications
· be willing to take an active role in delivering the course and communicating regularly with students
· be open to learning how to use the new technologies in order to be effective in the virtual environment
· be flexible in terms of availability, which may include offering online office hours via the web at times outside of the regular 9-5 work week
· be willing to provide students with timely and constructive feedback on Moodle
· be comfortable with working in a partnership with Continuing and Distance Studies in the delivery of the course.

These teaching assistantships are for the support of online courses. Some training and preparation is needed before the start of the course. Candidates must be prepared to work outside the regular 9-5 work week, and have access to the internet and a computer that meets minimum requirements. Experience with learning management systems (e.g. Moodle) and videoconferencing software (e.g. Adobe Connect) would be an asset.

Contract hours: The hours in the TA contract will be determined on the basis of the actual course enrolment.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Queen's University is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, visible minorities, aboriginal people, persons with disabilities, and persons of any sexual orientation or gender identity. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Candidates should be enrolled as graduate students in the Economics Department.

Graduate Teaching Assistants and Teaching Fellows at Queen's University are governed by the Collective Agreement between the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) and the University. Remuneration will be in accordance with the Collective Agreement, and appointments are subject to funding or enrollment criteria. Applications should include a complete and current curriculum vitae, an unofficial copy of your transcript, a letter of reference from one (1) referee, and any other relevant materials the candidate wishes to submit for consideration (e.g. letter of intent, teaching dossier, etc.). Please arrange to have applications and supporting letters sent directly to:
