Return

Depth and Breadth of Knowledge

(i) Recognize and explain how the primary modes of analysis in politics, philosophy and economics can and should be used.

Depth and Breadth of Knowledge

(ii) Describe how multidisciplinary complementarities among the modes of analysis provide unique insights across a range of social contexts.

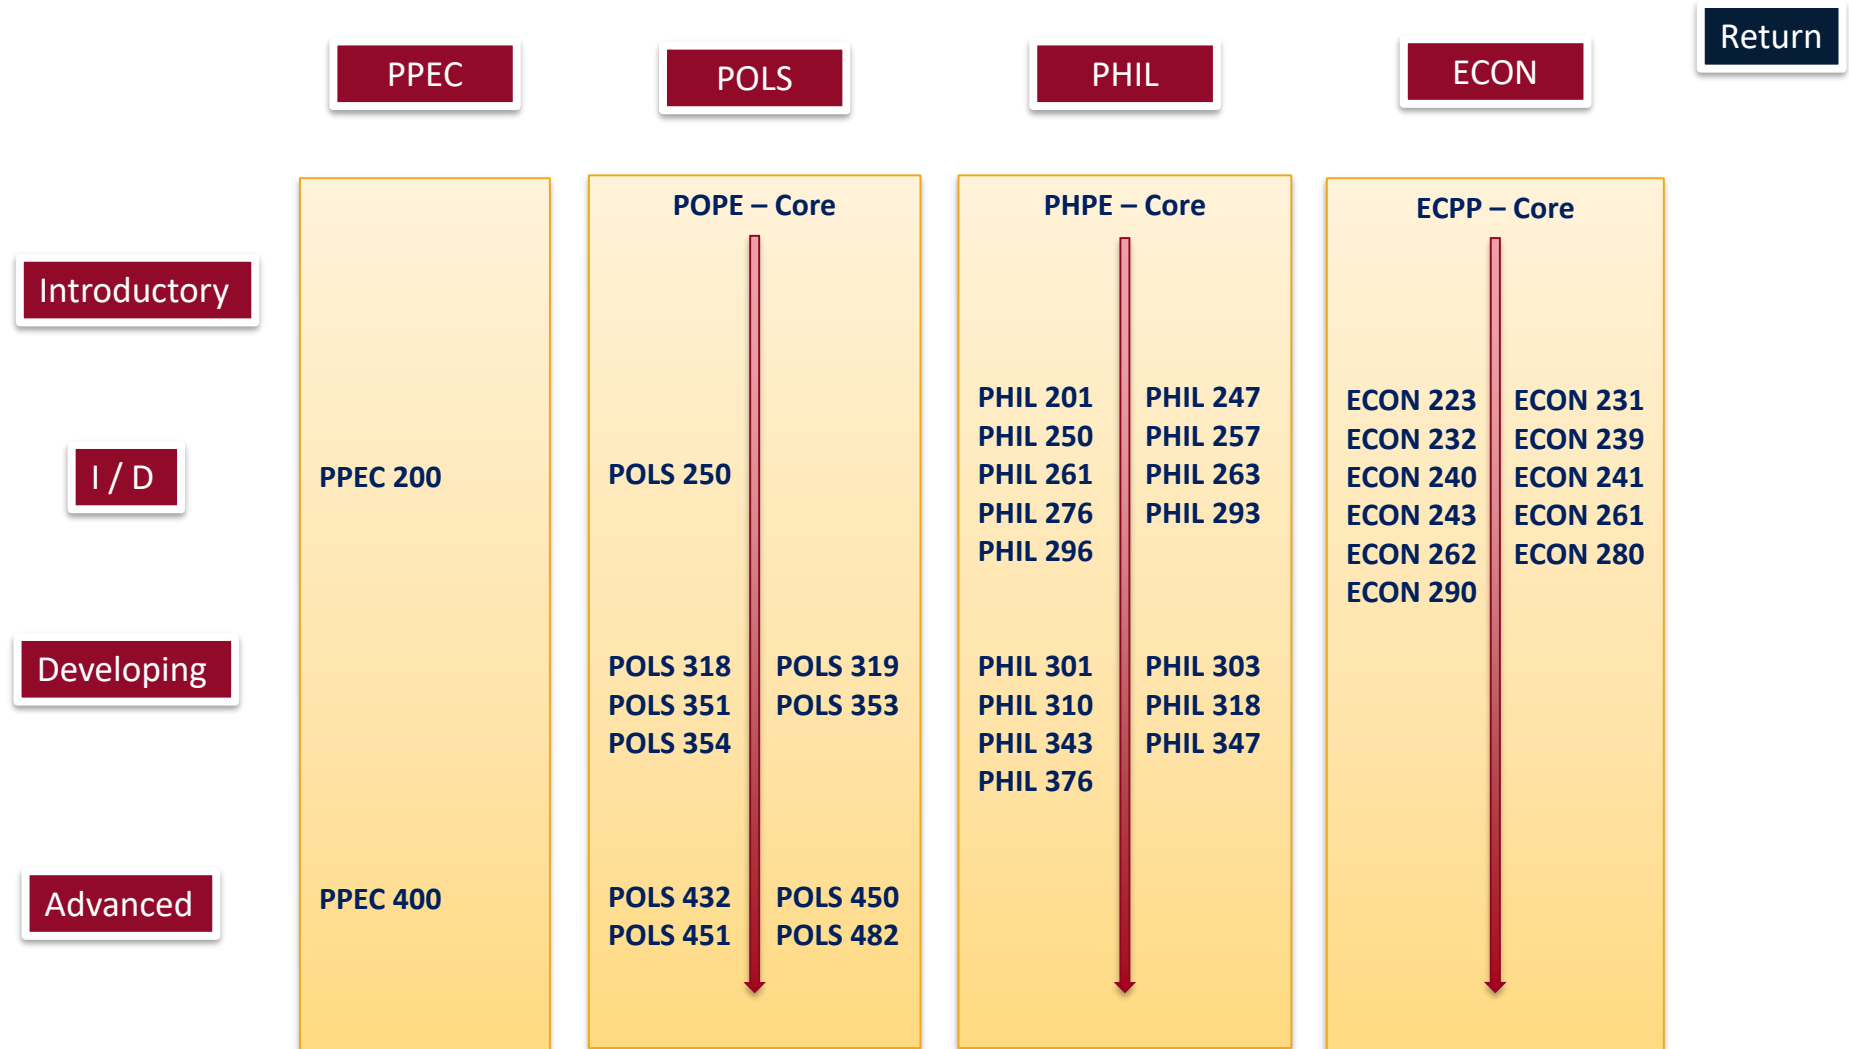

Depth and Breadth of Knowledge

(iii) Demonstrate a broad knowledge and awareness of the debates, issues and insights that are the focus of study in politics, philosophy and economics.

Depth and Breadth of Knowledge

(iv) Place the disciplinary debates, issues and insights into appropriate multidisciplinary and broader social contexts.

Knowledge of Methodologies

(i) Identify and describe the primary strengths and weaknesses of the theoretical foundations of contemporary political, philosophical and economic thought.

Knowledge of Methodologies

(ii) Demonstrate familiarity with the tools and approaches being used on the frontiers of contemporary political, philosophical and economic thought.

Knowledge of Methodologies

(iii) Demonstrate an ability to select and implement appropriate disciplinary and multidisciplinary tools and approaches across a range of social contexts.

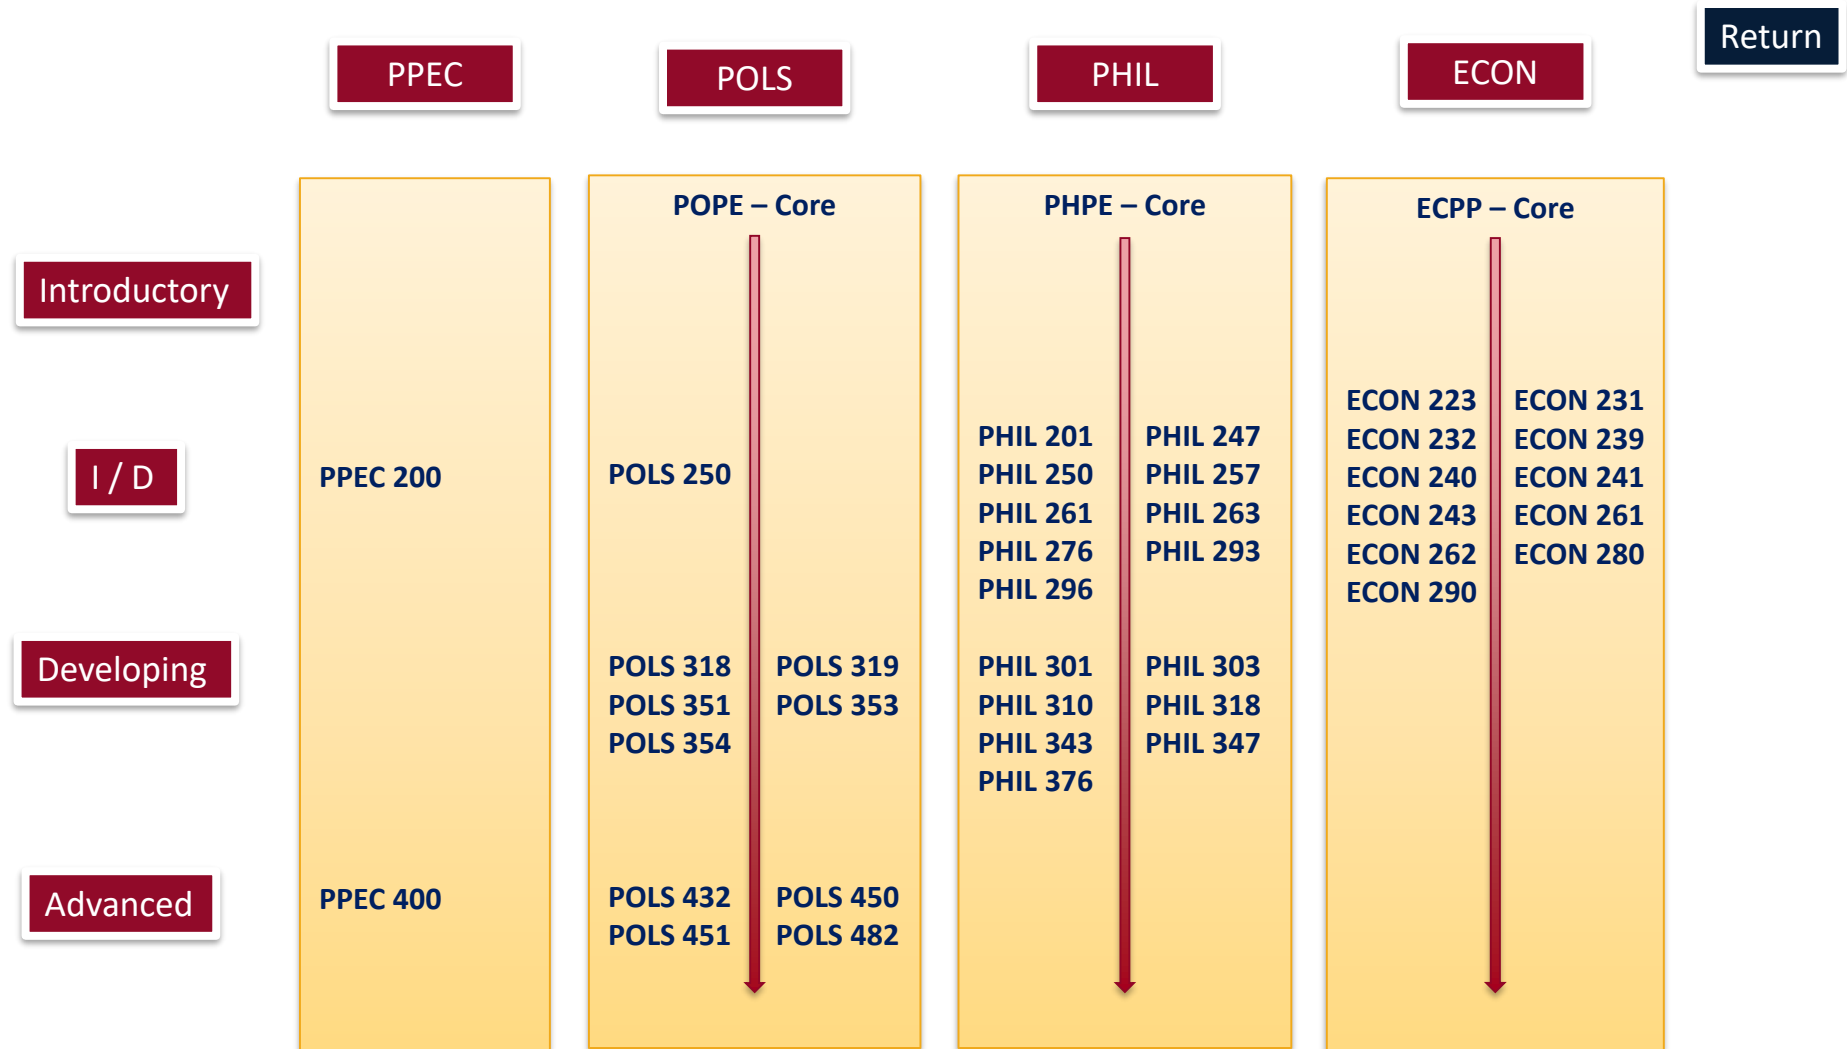

Application of Knowledge

(i) Identify issues of social concern for which disciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches can help with framing, clarification and resolution.

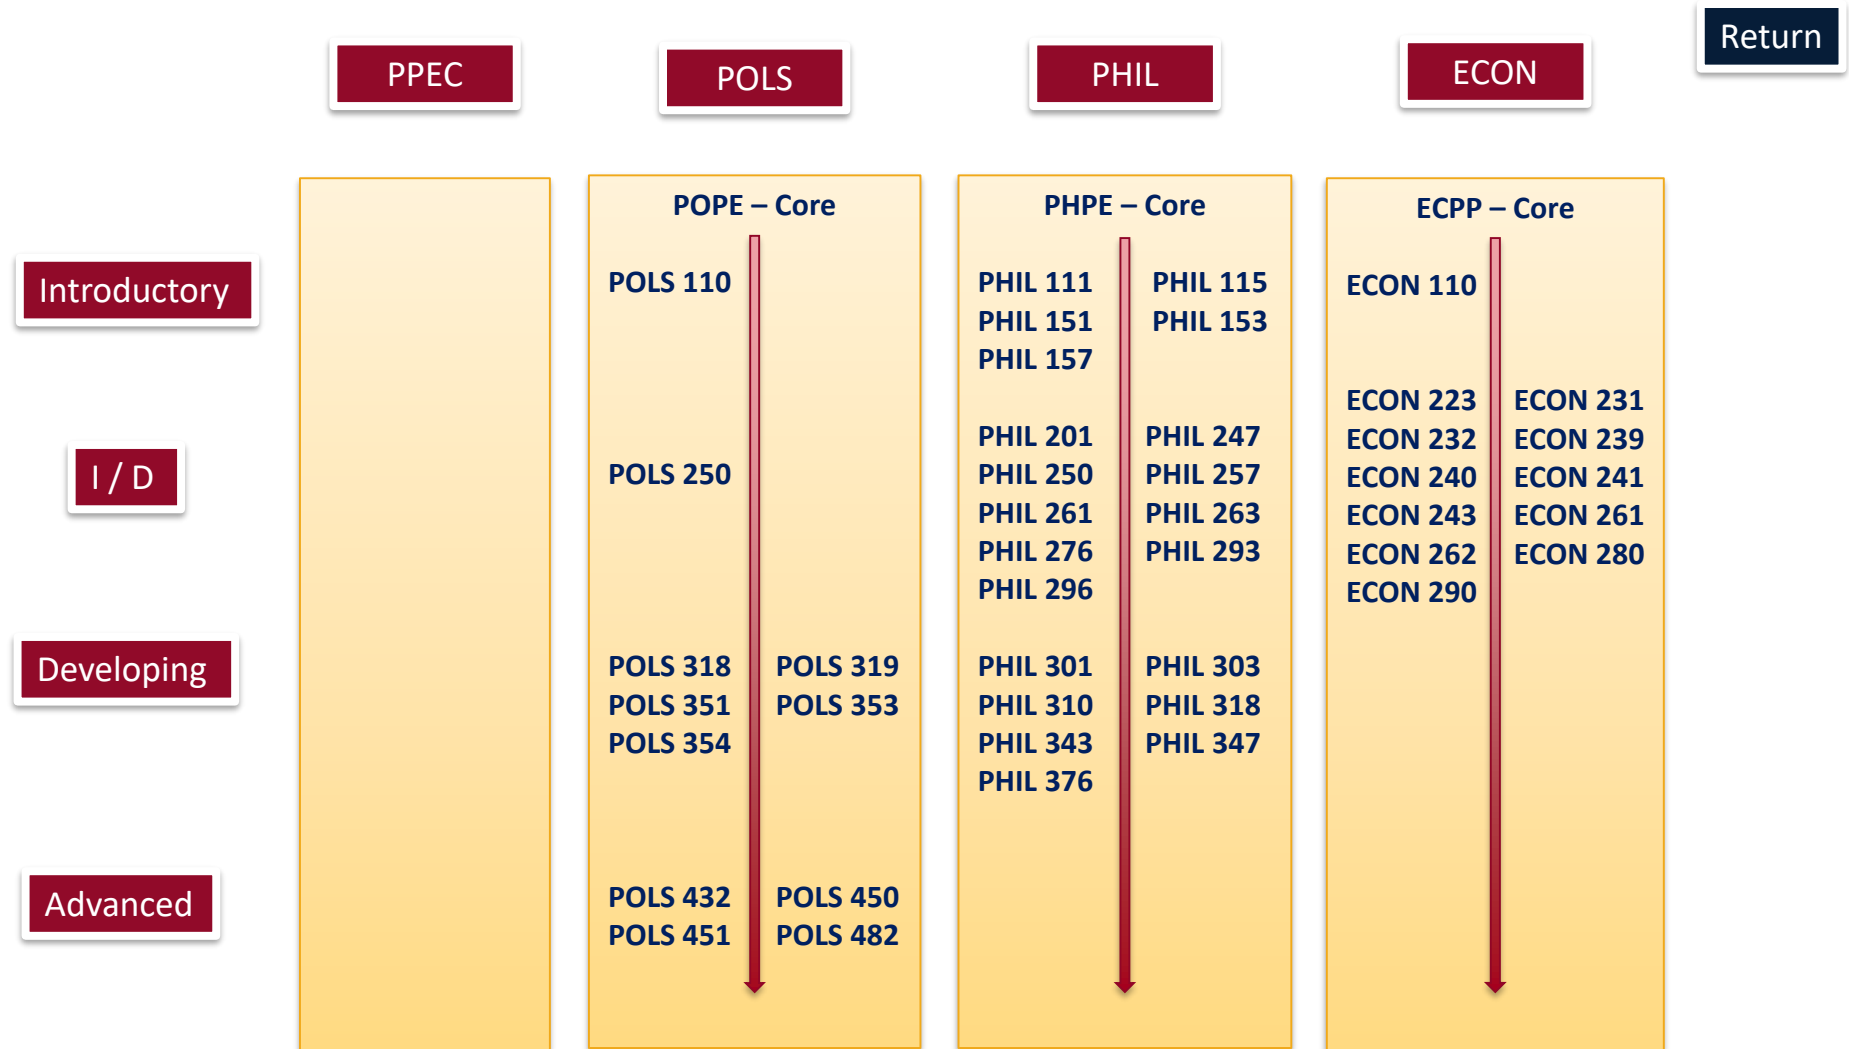

Application of Knowledge

(ii) Correctly employ disciplinary and multidisciplinary tools and approaches to frame, clarify and resolve problems that are contextually novel.

Application of Knowledge

(iii) Critically evaluate approaches that originate from outside the perspectives and theoretical foundations of politics, philosophy or economics.

Communication Skills

(i) Specify and frame a well-defined question and the dimensions of a clearly articulated response.

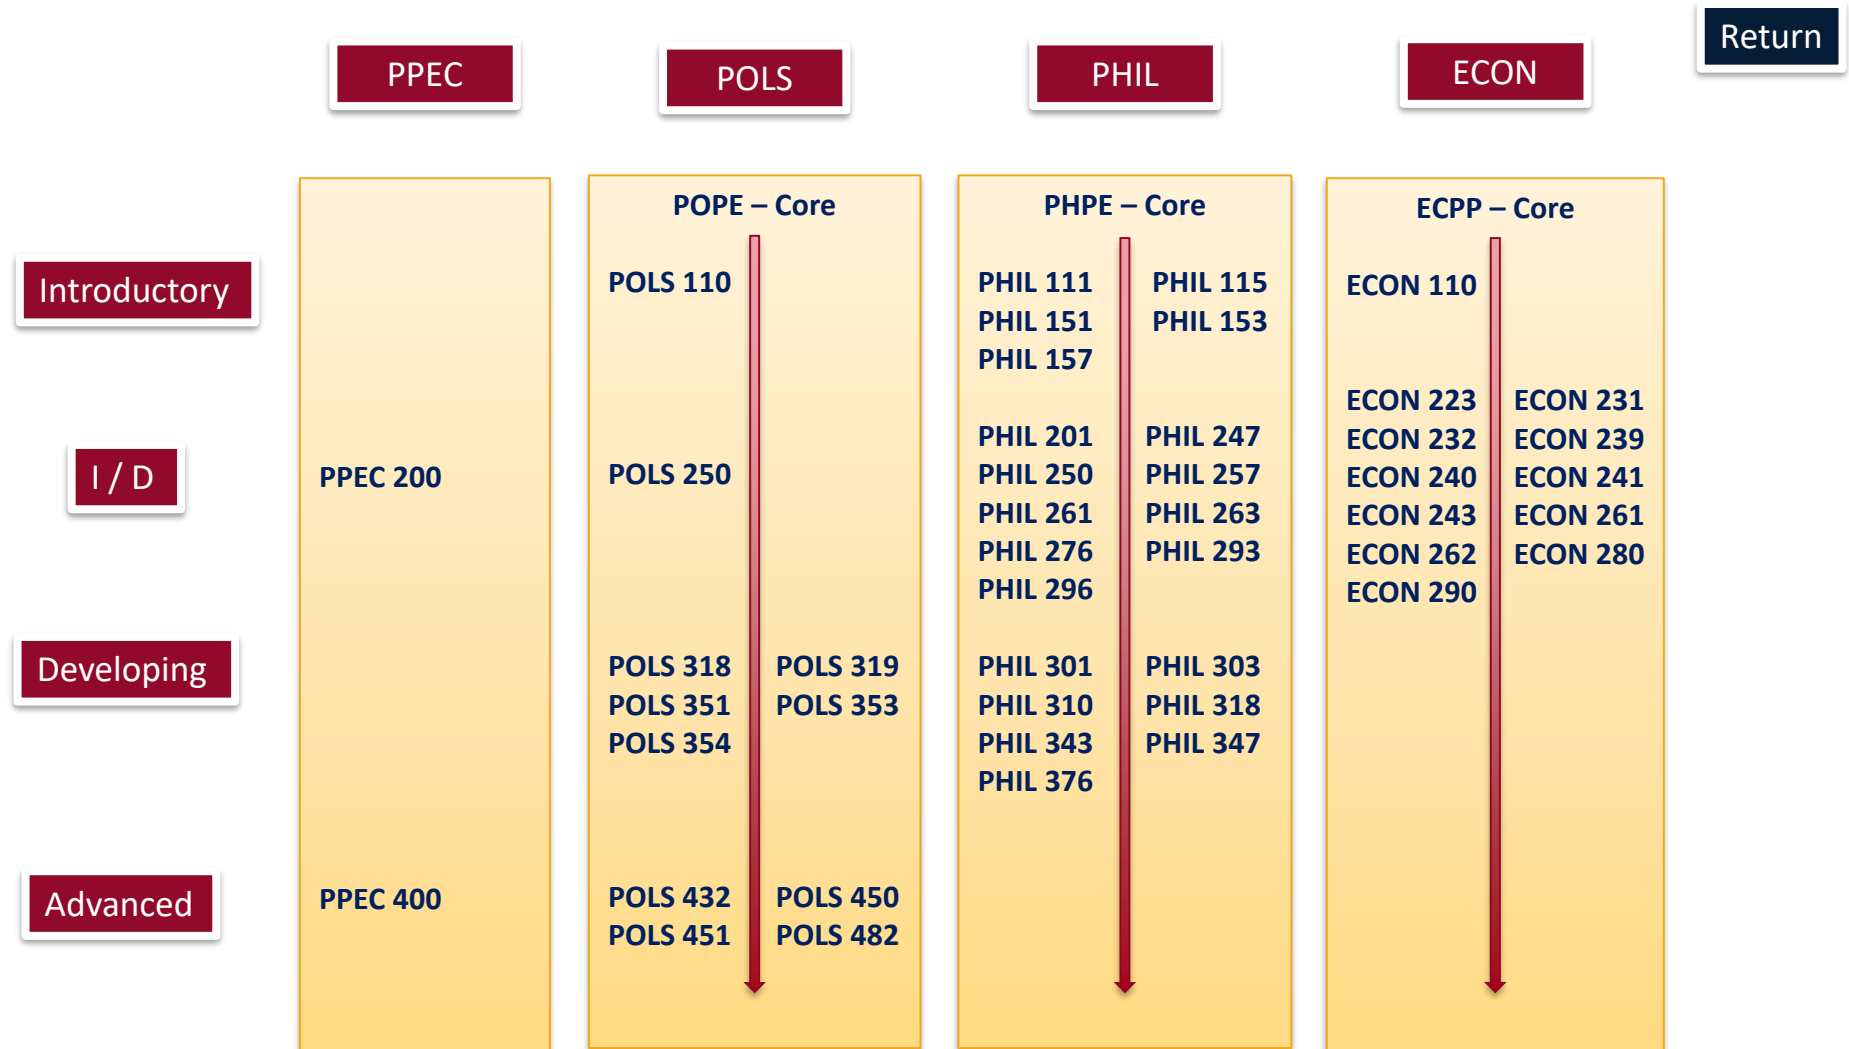

Communication Skills

(ii) Communicate sophisticated and complex disciplinary and multidisciplinary reasoning in written, spoken and visual form.

Communication Skills

(iii) Articulate clear and concise arguments that state assumptions, specify hypotheses and support conclusions.

Awareness of Limits of Knowledge

(i) Recognize that conclusions depend on assumptions, hypotheses and the underlying social context.

Awareness of Limits of Knowledge

(ii) Acknowledge that even multidisciplinary approaches and tools necessarily impose conditions on the questions that can be asked and conclusions reached.

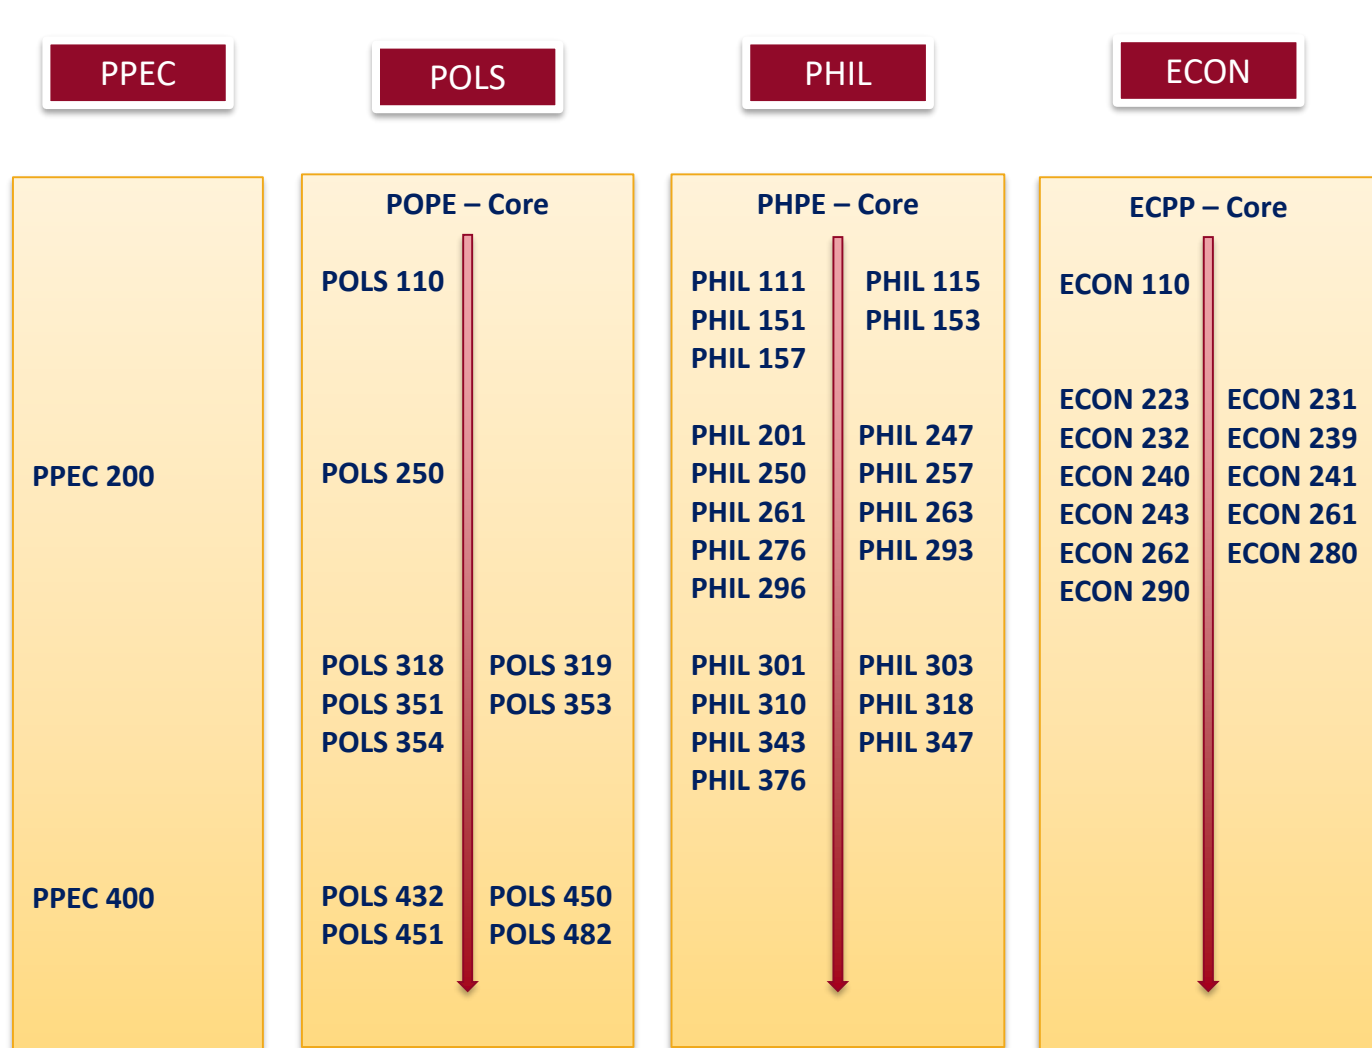

Awareness of Limits of Knowledge

(iii) Describe the ways in which political, philosophical and economic thought are not complementary, and why this can constrain multidisciplinary approaches.

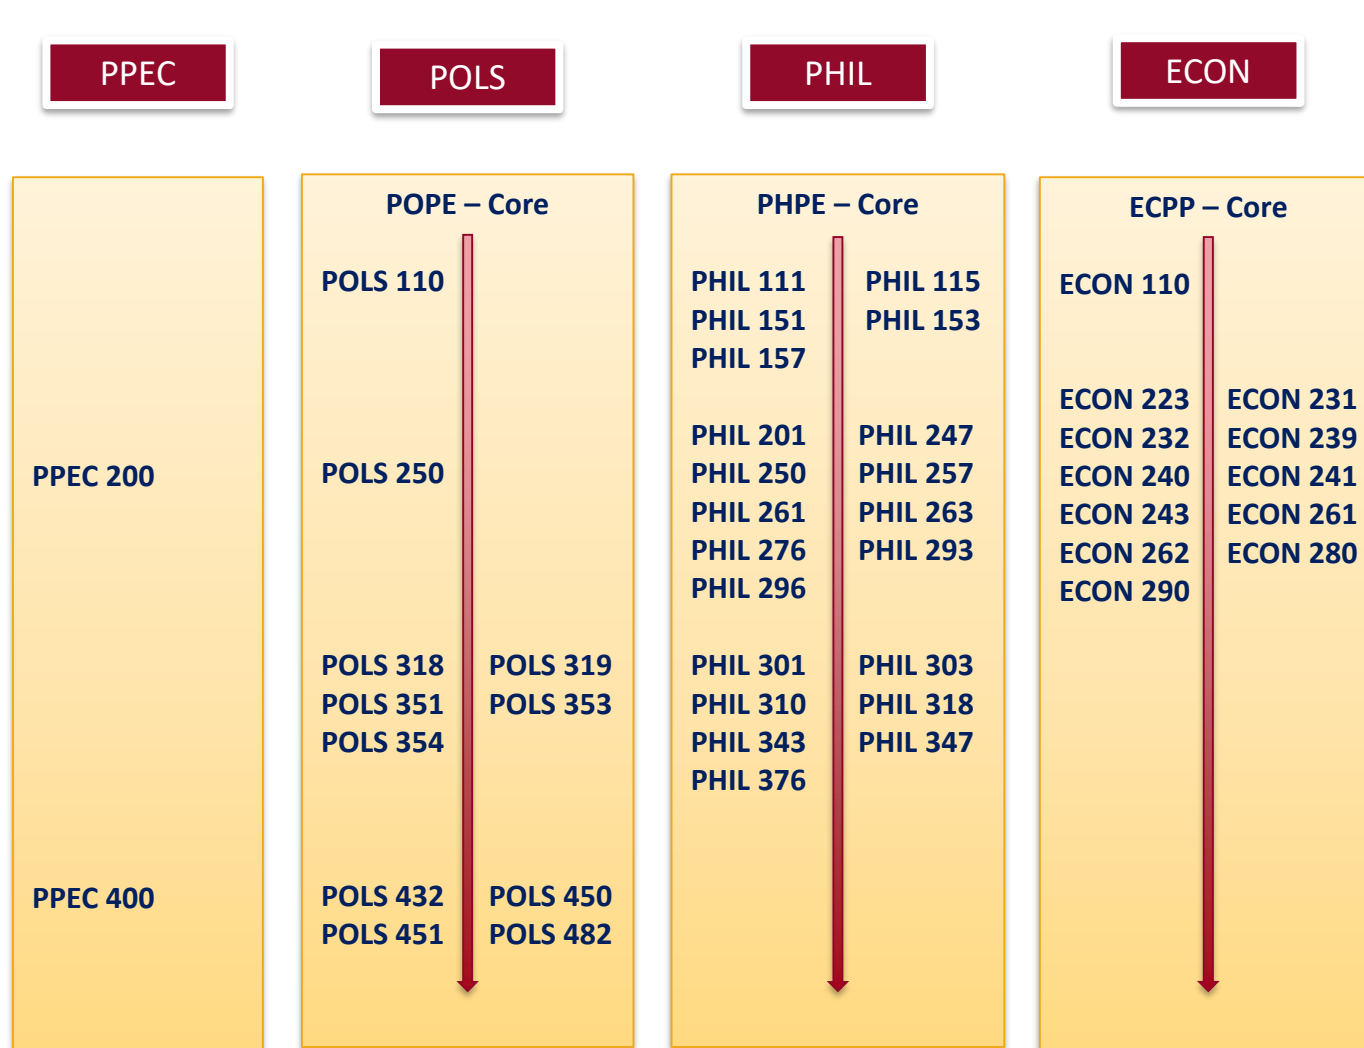

Autonomy and Professional Capacity

(i) Exercise academic, professional and personal behaviour consistent with academic integrity and social responsibility.

Autonomy and Professional Capacity

(ii) Demonstrate an ability to generalize skills for use across a broad range of personal and professional decision-making contexts.

Autonomy and Professional Capacity

(iii) Recognize that academic skills lay a foundation for continued curiosity, independent thought and academic and professional development.

ECON 110/6.0

Principles of Economics

Calendar Description:

An introduction to economic analysis of a modern mixed economy, including the roles of government. The microeconomics part of the course analyzes the behaviour of individual consumers and producers and the functioning of the market price system. The macroeconomics part examines the functioning of the economy as a whole, including the determination of national income, the price level, interest rates, the money supply, and the balance of payments.

Course Learning Outcomes:

- (i) Use the basic analytical principles and tools of modern economics to understand and assess observed economic phenomena, contemporary economic problems and government economic policies.
- (ii) Explain how resources are allocated and income is distributed in an economy.
- (iii) Describe and model the behaviour of economic agents, including households, firms and governments, and explain how these behaviours affect the determination of prices and quantities in individual markets for commodities and resources.
- (iv) Describe and model the relationships between aggregate economic variables, including national output, the level of aggregate consumption and investment, interest rates, employment and unemployment, and the average level and rate of change of all prices.
- (v) Explain how government policies influence the aggregate behaviour and performance of an economy.

Research Seminar in Politics, Philosophy and Economics

Calendar Description:

Politics, Philosophy and Economics approach problems from discipline specific perspectives, but the questions asked have fundamental similarities. In this course students will be exposed to research methods from all three disciplines, while completing a research intensive project. Peer review and presentation skills will be emphasized.

Prerequisite: Level 4; min Cumulative GPA = 1.90; min PPEC GPA = 2.60; 6.0 units from PPEC-POLS, POLS 250, 6.0 units from PPEC-PHIL, 6.0 units from PPEC-ECON

Course Learning Outcomes:

- (i) Recognize, distinguish and critique a range of discipline-specific research methods employed in politics, philosophy and economics.
- (ii) Select a question or topic with a multi-disciplinary dimension for research intensive study.
- (iii) Critique and develop topics and research approaches in small peer review sessions.
- (iv) Analyze and explore the chosen question or topic.
- (v) Write up and present a synthesis of their research findings.
- (vi) Engage in collaborative peer review and assessment.
